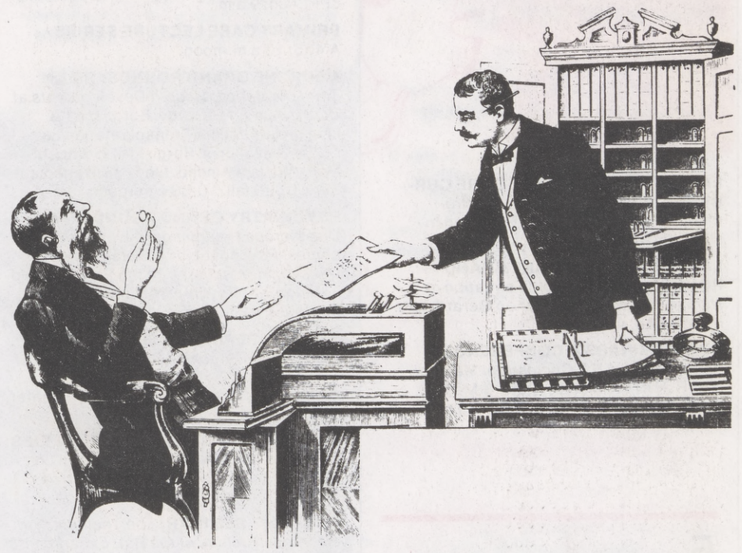
The UC Regents have approved the temporary, one-year reduction in required UCRS retirement contributions, with no reduction in benefits. This means an increase in paychecks for all UCRS members starting with their October earnings (paid October 22 and November 1).

The reduction, which was recommended in the 1982-83 State Budget, is already in effect for PERS members. The contribution reduction is effective July 1, 1982 and continues to June 30, 1983 unless a range adjustment or similar increase is effective before that time.

The required UCRS contribution is being reduced up to $50. Take-home pay will increase by the amount of individuals' current contribution or $50, whichever is less. If one is now contributing $42 per month to UCRS, this deduction will stop, increasing take-home pay by $42.

Retroactive reductions in contributions for July to September earnings will be paid to eligible UCRS members in a special check in mid-October.

The reduction in UCRS contributions will be effective for faculty at the same time as for staff. UC-Systemwide Administration and the Faculty Welfare Committee are presently developing a proposal to equalize the uneven distribution of the reduction among faculty. Details will be announced as they become available.



Well, it looks like a little more pocket money for UCRS members.

The Thirteenth Annual Paul M. Aggeler Visiting Professor will be E. Donnall Thomas, professor of Medicine at the University of Washington, School of Medicine.

Thomas, who also is director of Medical Oncology at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle, will deliver the Aggeler Lecture on Tuesday, October 12 in Carr Auditorium, SFGH at 11:30 a.m. He will speak on "Bone Marrow Transplantation for Hematologic Malignancies." He also will present the second talk of Medicine Grand Rounds the following day in Cole Hall at 11 a.m. when his topic will be "Marrow Transplantation for Patients with Aplastic Anemia."

This prestigious lectureship honors the memory of the UCSF professor of Medicine who was an internationally recognized authority in the field of coagulation. Aggeler died in 1969.

Robert G. Frank, Jr., associate professor of Medical History and History at UCLA, will present the Seventh Herbert McLean Evans Memorial Lecture on Wednesday, October 20 in HSW 302 at 2 p.m. His talk is entitled "Ions, Electrodes, Axons and Synapses: A Unified Neurophysiology Emerging, 1946-1956."

Frank, a graduate of Stanford and Harvard, is a biologist and medical historian and is recognized internationally for his contributions to both fields.

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Anatomy to honor the late Evans who was a UCSF biologist.

An exhibit honoring the 100th birthday of Evans can be viewed at the UCSF Library entrance on the second floor of the Medical Sciences building.

NEWS BRIEFS

Robert D. Gibson, PharmD, has accepted the position of Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Academic Affairs and Registrar effective October 1. In this capacity he is responsible for the management of administrative services and programs related to admissions, records, registration, relations with schools/divisions, student information systems, and affirmative action.

Gibson, who has been a faculty member of the School of Pharmacy since 1962, and associate dean for Student Affairs since 1975, currently is lecturer with Security of Employment. He worked for six months earlier this year at UC-System-wide Administration, Office of the Vice President for Academic and Staff Personnel Relations under a management fellowship. In addition from July 1 to August 30 he served as academic assistant.

Gibson received his BA in Chemistry from the University of Oregon in 1949 and his PharmD from UCSF in 1958. In 1965 he was a Fulbright Fellow at the University of Cairo and in 1969 served as consultant-in-residence for the Department of Health Education and Welfare, Office of Research and Statistics.

Edward J. Goetzl, MD, a leading scientist in immunology and allergic diseases and former Harvard faculty member, has been named to head a new UCSF division of allergy in the Department of Medicine. In his new position, Goetzl also holds appointment as professor of Medicine and Howard Hughes medical investigator.

The division of allergy will be organized as an interdisciplinary unit encompassing both research and clinical care. Basic research will focus on the cellular mechanisms of allergic diseases and the development of new patient testing procedures, while clinical research will be carried out in collaboration with other UCSF clinics, including those for infectious diseases, oncology, pulmonary medicine and dermatology.

Goetzl, who received his MD from Harvard in 1966, is recognized nationally for his research on the family of chemical factors (mediators) termed leukotrienes and the biology of a special class of human white blood cells, called eosinophils—an important part of the body's allergic response. He currently is investigating mediators that stimulate the migration of white blood cells to the site of an allergic reaction to regulate their participation in the resulting inflammation.

The UCSF Foundation, a non-profit, charitable corporation, has recently been formed to benefit the campus by providing resources, expertise and advice on fund raising and management.

At the present time the foundation's Board of Trustees is comprised of 10 UCSF faculty and administrators: Chancellor Julius Krevans, former Chancellor Francis Sooy, deans John Greene, Lloyd Kozloff, Margretta Styles, acting dean Robert Crede, Vice Chancellor Herb Suelzle, Director William Kerr, and assistant chancellors Brad Barber and Joe Cowan.

The Foundation also will provide a vehicle for private citizens to serve the campus and as a mechanism for the expansion of contacts with private industry. Outside members for the board are now being recruited.

The foundation is located at 350 Parnassus Avenue, Suite 307. Other offices located at this address are those of Assistant Chancellor Barber, the staff of the Chancellor's Advisory Panel on Relationships with Industry, and Dr. Charles Carman, campus dean for University Relations. The extension for all of these offices is 3945.

Major noise and vibration will continue in Moffitt and Long hospitals as the connecting openings between the two buildings are made. Saw-cutting will be used to remove approximately 50 percent of the concrete and steel walls of Moffitt at the connecting points. However, the remainder must be removed by jackhammering which is extremely noisy.

Each opening will take four weeks to complete and jackhammering will occur on weekdays 7 to 11 a.m.

In addition, as the Long patient units are opened various hospital units in Moffitt and UC are being moved and consolidated—Moffitt 9 East has moved to 8 East, 8 Long has become a fully operational Neurology-Neurosurgery Unit, Moffitt 10 East has reduced its size to a 15-bed Orthopaedic unit and neurology patients have moved from 10 East to Moffitt 8 North/South and 8 Long.

Future moves include: Moffitt 12 South to Moffitt 9 North/South on Monday, October 18, and UC 4B closing and UC 3AB reducing its capacity when Ophthalmology beds are moved into Long's 9th floor on Monday, October 25.

Evalyn S. Gendel, MD, has been selected by the UC Regents to deliver the 1982 Jake Gimbel Sex Psychology Lectures. She will present a series of five lectures in November and December.

Gendel has been director of the Sex Counseling and Therapy Clinic and the Human Sexuality Program since 1978, and has been responsible for reorganizing the core curriculum in sex education, and establishing a new training program in sex therapy and counseling for residents and other mental health professionals.

The Jake Gimbel Sex Psychology Lectures were established in 1965, and are given each year in California with the speaker chosen in alternate years by the UC Regents and the Board of Trustees of Stanford. The lectures are free and open to the public.

Gendel's general topic will be "Sex Education in Medical Settings." The lectures will be given in the LPPI Auditorium. See future issues of Today & Tomorrow for exact titles and dates.

The unique relationship between two distinct fields—the health sciences and the humanities—is explored in a special double issue of Mobius (Vol. 2, No. 3), the quarterly journal for continuing education supported by UCSF's Institute for Health Policy Studies.

Focusing on the theme "medical humanities," the issue includes 15 essays in two general categories: "why a health practitioner should study the humanities" and "how the humanities are being taught to health care professionals." Essays are authored by a number of prominent faculty in medicine and philosophy including UCSF's Albert R. Jonsen, PhD, Gert H. Brieger, MD, PhD, Andrew Jameton, PhD and Dan Todes, PhD.

In addition, this special double issue features an essay by Norman Cousins, former editor of The Saturday Review, and a column on student views of bioethics.

Mobius is available by subscription or single issue purchase. For further information call x3904.

The Office of Public Service Programs is in the process of updating their Public Service Directory. The directory provides UC staff and faculty with a summary of what UCSF schools, departments and individuals are doing in the area of public service. It also assists campus administration in providing appropriate recognition and support of community related programs.

Public service programs are being defined as all UCSF activity of an educational, service or support nature that is directed primarily to individuals and groups off campus.

Directories are available at the offices of department chairs and deans. For further information on updating the directory contact David Bracker at x3206.

The Nutrition and Dietetics Department is now featurning a salad bar in the Golden Gate Room, Monday to Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. A variety of vegetables and dressings are offered. Salad bar price is $2. Main plate salads are still available in the main cafeteria.

Patient care at SFGH has acquired a new resource with the establishment of a clinic to assess and treat patients with alcohol-related neurologic diseases. It meets Monday mornings in conjunction with the SFGH Neurology Clinic.

The clinic is the first component of the new Ernest Gallo Clinic and Research Center, which will be based at SFGH. Ivan Diamond, MD, PhD, UCSF professor of Neurology, Pediatrics and Pharmacology, is the director of the clinic.

In addition to the Monday morning clinic, Diamond and his staff will provide consultation to the Alcoholic Evaluation and Treatment Center at SFGH and to all hospital services.

The Ernest Gallo Research Center and the Department of Neurology will construct research laboratories within the next year at SFGH on the first floor of Building 1. The purpose of the clinic, according to Diamond, is to provide patient care and to conduct related basic research into how alcohol interacts with the nervous system to produce changes in the brain. Research will explore the development of tolerances to alcohol and alcohol-related neurologic disorders such as dementia, seizures, cerebellar disease and neuropathy.

Under the auspices of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, an attempt will be made to replicate the successful UCSF Pre-Term Labor Program at five other medical facilities. Clinics patterned on the UCSF program will be established at the University of Alabama-Birmingham, Northwestern University, UC-San Diego, Ohio State and Vanderbilt University.

The Pre-Term Birth Prevention Program was established by Robert K. Creasy, MD, professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, who continues to serve as director. From 1978 to 1980 premature births at UCSF dropped by 50 percent as a result of this program which teaches pregnant women how to recognize the onset of premature labor and when to get medical help.

In addition, the March of Dimes, which has provided support for the program since 1977, has awarded a new grant of $100,000 to Creasy to coordinate an ongoing evaluation of the multi-center clinics and to continue and expand the existing program at UCSF.

Creasy described the campus program and its accomplishments when he delivered the principal address at a press symposium sponsored by the March of Dimes in late September in New York.

The Transportation Services Office is offering for the month of October a 50% discount to all new riders who join a vanpool.

The Vanpool Program has a fleet of 35 vans that transport UCSF faculty, staff and students to and from UCSF throughout the Bay Area. Besides being enjoyable, vanpool riding is economical and conserves fuel. For further information call x1511.
